About Our Speakers

CONSEC 2017
CONFERENCE

Lord James Bethell is one of Britain's foremost communicators with a twenty year track record working across government, media and industry. He has run effective campaigns on a host of major issues, including the 50p tax, HS2 and against the BNP. He has worked at The Sunday Times, run as a Conservative parliamentary candidate, worked at the US Senate and the EU Commission, was a founder of Portland Communications, and helped set up and run the Ministry of Sound. James is also the patron of the Association of Security Consultants.

Sir Hugh Orde OBE, QPM is a former senior UK Police Officer. With 38 years of policing experience, Sir Hugh first served from Constable to Deputy Assistant Commissioner in London's Metropolitan Police Service. In 2002 he was appointed Chief Constable of the Police Service of Northern Ireland, which he led during a key period of organisational transition until 2009. In 2009 Sir Hugh was elected by his senior peers from across the 44 police forces of England, Wales and Northern Ireland to be the President of the Association of Chief Police Officers, where he led the transition of the organisation into the National Police Chiefs Council (NPCC). Chairing the NPCC he coordinated national police resources during times of emergency and major pre-planned national events and advised government and government agencies and departments as senior police adviser. Sir Hugh now works as an independent consultant with a particular focus on Leadership, Terrorism and Peace Processes. He is a Police Advisor to the UK Ministry of Defence MOD, an Associate of the College of Policing, Chair of the Police Arboretum Memorial Trust and President, Police Mutual Assurance Society. In 2015 Sir Hugh was appointed as a patron of the Association of Security Consultants.

Cath Goulding is Head of Information Security, Nominet UK and Board member of the Women's Security Society. Cath has over 15 years experience in the cyber security profession having worked for both UK Government and the private sector. A thought leader in her field, she frequently speaks at security and internet conferences and has provided articles and comments for multiple publications. Her career was recently profiled in the Financial Times and she was interviewed by BBC world promoting women into the IT profession. Cath currently works as Head of Information Security for Nominet UK, the internet company best known for running the 'dot.uk' registry and therefore critical to internet operations in the UK. Prior to joining Nominet, Cath worked at GCHQ holding a variety of posts in the field of cyber security. Cath has a BSc in Mathematics, an MSc in Human Computer Interaction and is CISSP qualified. She was awarded security champion at the women in IT awards 2015.

Bill Butler LLB, CPFA, CSyP was Chief Executive of the Security Industry Authority from 2009 until his retirement in May 2015. He has spoken on regulation and the security industry in the UK and internationally and has extensive regulatory, audit and finance expertise, having previously been a director at the Gambling, Healthcare and Audit Commissions. He is a Chartered Public Finance Accountant and was proud to be admitted as a Chartered Security Professional in 2014. He is the Chair of the Audit Committee at the Gangmasters Licensing Authority and a member of the Regulatory Panel of the Chartered Institute of Public Finance and Accountancy. In retirement, he plans to spend more time on his hobbies, in amateur theatre and sailing.

Ed Butler CBE, DSO Brig. Gen. (retired) is Head of Risk Analysis at Pool Re, the Government backed terrorism reassurance scheme as well an independent Advisor to the Board of EDF Energy Generation, the operating company for UK's nuclear industry. He has extensive experience spanning some 35 years of international relations, counter terrorism, intelligence, security and risk management much of which was gained during 24 years of front line service with the British Army. He was privileged to command 22 SAS over 9/11 and was Commander of British Forces Afghanistan in 2006, before retiring as a Brigadier General in 2008. He has an Honours degree in Politics and International Relations from Exeter University and an MA in Military Technology and Defence Studies from Cranfield University.

Shaun Hipgrave is the Head of Joint Security & Resilience Centre (JSaRC). JSaRC is a unit inside the Office for Security and Counter Terrorism (OSCT) within the Home Office, established to help the government and UK security sector suppliers work more closely – making it quicker and simpler to bring customers and solutions together. Shaun is an expert in the use of telecommunications data in major crime investigations, especially terrorist enquiries. His experience includes time as Vice President of ADS Security Sector, Chair of RISC International, representing SMEs on the ADS Security Sector Board, member of the UKTI DSO Security Advisory Group and member of main RISC Council.

Paul Heffernan is the Group CISO for Unipart Group of Companies. With nine years' experience in the cyber security world, including consulting to some of the world's biggest brands and he engages with the business at board level to enable trusted secure commerce. With an 'ethical hacker' background, he is able to address complex security challenges but is equally passionate about driving effective change through unambiguous leadership and communication. Paul is a regular international speaker at various industry conferences such as the e-Crime Congress, GBI CISO Summit and CISO360 Barcelona. When he isn't keeping Unipart safe, you can find him tinkering with code and figuring out how to inspire the next generation of cyber security professionals. Paul is proud to have been recognised by the Cyber Security Awards as 'Highly Commended' CISO of the Year 2017. You can reach him on LinkedIn or on Twitter at @pjh_22.

Aidan Anderson CSyP MSyI is an independent security consultant, working within his own practice, RedLeaf Consultancy. With 35 years experience in security, Aidan grounded his career by having served in the British Army's Intelligence Corps, where he undertook both intelligence and counter intelligence duties against a range of hostile threats. On leaving the Corps, Aidan developed his career further through employment in a major CCTV systems house, CMR Electronics. During his time at the company, Aidan designed CCTV systems and control rooms for a wide range of commercial and government organisations. Capitalising on his experience in the Intelligence Corps and CMR Electronics, Aidan was recruited by Northern Bank as their first external security manager and subsequently by Northern's parent Group, as their first Group Security Manager. From establishing strategies to deal with bank robberies, Tiger Kidnapping and terrorism, to bringing in standardised security policies and instructions, Aidan integrated security and business continuity to bring about a resilience based function. Aidan is a Chartered Security Professional and a Member of the Security Institute.
